before Spears could draw a bead on him he had dedged behind a corner of the bank and was making time in the direction of the alley where the bandits had tied their horses.

The shot which dropped Bob Dalton aroused "Texas Jack's" band in Congdon's bank, who were patiently waiting for the time-lock of the safe to be sprung with the hour of 10. Running to the windows of the bank they saw their leader prostrate on the ground. Raising their rifles to their shoulders they fired one volley out of the windows. Two men fell at the volley. Cashier Ayers fell on the steps of his bank, shot through the groin. The shoemaker, Brown, of the attacking party in the square, was shot through the body. He was quickly removed to his shop, but died just as he was carried within.

The firing attracted the attention of Marshal Connelly, who, collecting more men for his posse, and with the few which he had already gathered, ran hurriedly to the scene of the conflict. After firing their volley from the windows of the bank, the bandits, seeing that their only escape lay in flight, attempted to escape. They ran from the door of the bank, firing as they fled. The marshal's posse in the square, without organization of any kind, fired at the fleeing bandits, each man for himself. Spears's trusty Winchester spoke twice more in quick succession before the others of the posse could take aim, and Joseph Evans and "Texas Jack" fell dead, both shot through the head, making three dead bandits to his credit. In the general fusilade which followed, Grat Dalton, one of the surviving members of "Texas Jack's" squad, Marshal Connelly, George Cubine and L. M. Baldwin, one of Congdon's clerks, who was out collecting when the attack was made, were mortally wounded, and died on the field. Allie Ogec, the only survivor of the band, succeeded in escaping to the alley where the horses were tied, and mounting the swiftest horse of the lot fled south in the direction of the Indian Territory.

EMMETT DALTON PURSUED AND KILLED.

Emmett Dalton, who had escaped from the First National Bank, had already reached the alley in safety, but he had some trouble in getting mounted, and Allie Ogee had already made his escape before Emmett got fairly started. Several of the posse, anticipating that horses would be required, were already mounted, and quickly pursued the escaping bandits. Emmett Dalton's norse, was no match for the fresher animals of his pursuers. As his pursuers closed on him he turned suddenly in his saddle and fired upon his would-be captors. The latter answered with a volley, and Emmett toppled from his horse hard hit. He was brought back to town, and died late this afternoon. He made an ante-mortem statement, confessing to the various crimes committed by the gang of which he was a member. Allie Ogee had about ten minutes' start of his pursurers and was mounted on a swift horse. At 5 o'clock this evening he had not been captured.

After the battle was over search was made for the money which the bandits had secured from the two banks. It was found in the sacks where it had been placed by the robbers. sack was found under the body of "Bob" Dalton, who had fallen dead upon it while he was escaping from the First National Bank. The was found tightly clinched in "Texas Jack's" hand. The money was restored to its

The bodies of those of the attacking party who were killed were removed to their respective homes, while the bodies of the dead bandits were allowed to remain where they had fallen until the arrival of the coroner from Independwho ordered them to be removed to the Court House There he held an inquest, the jury returning a verdict in accordance with the The inquest over the bodies of the dead citizens will be postponed until the result of the pursuit of Allie Ogee is known. During the time the bodies remained in the square they were viewed by hundreds of the people of this and surrounding towns, who, having heard of the tragedy, came in to inspect the scene. The excitement was of the most intense character, and the fate of Allie Ogee, should he be captured, was determined by universal corsent. He will be hanged by the people.

The affair to-day was the fulfilment of the rophecy that the Daltons would "die with Fate decreed that they should die by the hands of their old friends in the vicinity of their place of birth. The excellent marksmanship of Mr. Spears, who with three shots ! eent death to as many bandits, was a subject of favorable comment.

COULINS OF THE JAMESES AND THE YOUNGERS. The Daltons were a numerous family. There were five boys and three girls. Of the boys two are engaged in farming, one in Oklahoma, where the mother of the family lives, and one near Coffeyville where three of the brothers met their death to-day. The Dultons were second cousins of the noted James boys, who defied the law in Missouri for so many years, and through them were related to the Youngers, who are now serving life terms of imprisonment in the penitentiary of Minnesota. "Bob" Dalton was the first of the boys to enter upon a career of crime. While he was scarcely more than a boy he became a cattle thief, and did a thriving business, driving off boys to enter upon a career of crime. While he was scarcely more than a boy he became a cartle; thief, and did a thriving business; driving off cattle from the herds or the Cherokee Strip and taking them across the Indian Territory into Colorado, where he would sell them. He was joined soon after he entered the business by his brother Gratton Dolton. Their decredations became so frequent and troublesome that the cattlemen organized to drive them from the Strip. A posse of cowboya was formed for that purpose and gave the Daltons as hard clase, finally losing them in the wilds of New-Mexico. The next heard of the Daltons was in California; where they took to train and stage robbing. While robbing a stage there one of the passengers was killed in the attack. This spurred the officers on to extraordinary efforts to effect the capture of the gang, and "Grat' Dalton was finally cantured. While being taken to a place for safe-keeping he was rescued by the other members of the gang, the whole party finally escending after being chased in Oalifornia and through a good part of Arizona.

In the spring of 1885 the gang turned up again in the Indian Territory, when Oklahoma was opered to settlement, the Dalton boys securing a choice claim for their mother near Hennessey, where she still lives, supported by one of her sons. At the time of the opening, "Bob' Dalton was a United States deputy marshal, being selected on account of his peculiar fitness to deal with desperate characters. After the opening he returned to his life of outhawry, and he and "Grat' were then joined by "Texas Jack," and soon gathered around them several desperate characters. It was then that the most successful period of the Deltons' career, from their scaling her than a successful period of the Deltons' career, from their scaling his brace of the Santa Fe at Wharton and at Red Rock; the Missouri Pacific at Adair; and the "Fried has recognized them, shot him dead upon the spot without warning. They rode into El Bend one day and attacked the only bank in the fown. The only person in the bank at the time was the wife of the president, who fainted at the first sight of the ugly revolvers. The bandits leisurely took all the ugly revolvers. The bandits leasurely took all the money in sight and remounting their horses rode away. This raid netted them $10,000, which was such a severe loss to the bank that it was forced into liquidation. To-day's was the next and last raid of the gang, and with it ended the existence of a band equalled only in the desperate character of its undertakings by the James and Younger bands.

THE WESTERN PASSENGER RATE WAR. Chicago, Oct. 5 (Special).-A plan has been proposed for the removal of the existing demoralization in Western passenger affairs without the necessity of re-organizing the Western Passenger Association. ELOQUENT ADDRESSES BY CONGRESSMAN BOU-TELLE AND EX-CONGRESSMEN WHITE

The Republicans of Brooklyn turned out in large numbers last night to cheer for Harrison and Reid, and the enthusiasm and earnestness which they displayed made it evident how senseless was every fear that the party in Kings County would not do its full duty in polling a large vote for Protection and honest money. him the audience would hear. He then introduced Mr. Boutelle, who spoke in part as follows:

It is unnecessary for me to say how gratified I feel at such a reception to-night in this great old city, and especially to address such an audience a this, presided over by my esteemed colleague of the List Congress, in whose absence I am very lonesome, and whose company I hope you will give me again, and also that of your other distinguished citizen, my friend Mr. White. (Cheers)

Mr. President; I am an American—(cheers and cheers, with "three times three")—and that renders it unnecessary for me to say that I am a Republican (Applause.) I am proud of belonging to a political organization that has a history that can be read without feelings of shame by any patrioth citizen of this great Republic. (Applause.) I know that our Democratic friends are in the habit of saving that it is backneyed for the Republicans to say that they point with pride to the history of its political organization. I don't wonder that our Democratic friends take that view. But just as individuals ask for renewed trust in any capacity, their hostage must be their reference to their past reputation and achievements. So it is in 1802 as it was in 1805; the past is a guarantee of the Inture of a political organization, and the Republican party does point to an honorable record. (Applause.) And so, my friends, we find ourselves upon the eve of another great Fresidential struggle, in which is to be contested who shall control the administrative power of the most prominent Nation on the fare of the earth. We have a right to challenge who shall control this administrative power with a demand that the issues shall be causality, frankly and plainly placed before the people of this country.

Honesty is not only the best policy, but the bed rock of the best politics. (Applause).

How can the letter Mr. Cleveland be reconciled with the policy indorsed by that convention (at Chicago)? When that reconciliation is brought about I shall be rendy to join issue on the question of Protection against Free-Trade. But no man, however ingenious he may be, can construe that letter according to the rules of the English language, and draw from it any coherent or cogent tariff platform. The Democratic party has never squarely and fully met any great quistion. It did not in the period of 1801 to 1805, and hever has it since. From that time to this it has been a party of negative abstraction and fault-inding. It has never champloned any great measure, and it has depended for success on misrepresentation and false prejudices.

EENEFITS OF PROTECTION.

RENEFITS OF PROTECTION.

Mr. Boutelle then turned his attention to the Mc Kinley tariff law. He said that it was new in 1890. and that the history of the boy could not be written before its eye teeth had been cut. Taking up the report of the Senate Committee on Finance which had report of the senate Committee of Thanks received the unanimous approval of all the members of the Committee, Democrats as well as Republicans, he showed that the vages of the working man had been increased, and the cost of living decreased since the passage of the McKinley bill. This demonstration was applicated appreciatively by the audience.

Then Mr. Boutelle spoke of the manner in which the Democratic party had treated Commissioner Peck for having advertised the prosperity of the State. The party in power in this State was now trying to just that official in the penitentiary for having told the truth. In his long experience nothing had come to his mind that so clearly demonstrated the hostility of the Democratic party to the prosperity of the American people.

While the speaker was talking the C. H. Francis Battery of the Twenty-eighth Ward marched in. The noise of the dram was first heard in the entry, and the audience arose expectantly. The speaker exclaimed, "They are coming, Father Abrahum," and cheers followed. The speaker explained what a tariff or revenue only was, in reply to a question asked by some in the audience, and he took for his object lesson the article of sugar.

The article of sugar, and had to get eccived the unanimous approval of all the members

"This," said Mr. Routelle, "reminds me of a story, and perhaps you have heard it, too. There was an Irishman who went into a store soon after the sugar schedule went into a effect, and prices had been reduced. He threw a dollar down on the counter and told the gracer he wanted that much in sugar. Well, Jones, the greecr, filled a pail, then built a bilwark of brown paper around it, and kept filling the sugar in. The Irishman took the pail, got as far as the door, and then asked how many pounds there were in it. Jones replied that there were twenty-two pounds, and since the McKinley bill had taken off the tariff sugar was now much cheaper.

"The Irishman said: Jones, shovel some of that out."

"What for?" said Jones.

"Why, if I should take that home and tell me wife that story she would be after never letting me vote the Democratic ticket again as long as I live." (Laughter and long continued applause.)

A SPEAKER FROM THE WEST.

State Senator W. S. Kerr, of Ohlo, was introduced. and said that he simply wanted to congratulate the udience on hearing such magnificent speeches. ad been afraid to speak to the Republicans of New magnificent Administration.

Before the meeting adjourned Chairman Wallace announced that Chainey M. Depew would speak at the thic of Saturday right.
